

Hosted in collaboration between Barefoot Facilitation Inc. and NL Housing and Homelessness Network:

Building Community Partnerships

Workshop Description:

Are you interested in building new partnerships in your community? Do you want to enhance your ability to implement multi-faceted strategies to achieve common objectives? Community partnerships exist in many forms and for many different functions. They involve building relationships between more than one individual, group or organization. Often, each partner has different objectives, activities, resources and expectations about working in partnership. Understanding these differences helps to identify which level of partnership is best for your situation.

This half-day workshop will help you to reflect on how you currently connect with groups and organizations in your community and to explore ways to initiate new, dynamic and effective partnerships.

Upon completion of this workshop, you will:

1. Explain the range of purposes for building community partnerships.
2. Summarize the principal characteristics of the common levels of partnership along Himmelman's Collaborative Continuum.
3. Describe the 6 Activities for Successful Partnerships.
4. Discuss the critical factors that contribute to a successful partnership.
5. Identify practical steps to enhance an existing partnership or build a new partnership.
